

Get Ready for Windows® 11

Prioritize. Plan. Procure.

“Adoption of Windows 11 in the enterprise sector is 8.35%.
Only 67.5% of workstations are ready for the Windows 11 update.”

October 2025 and Windows 10 EOS (end of support) will be here before you know it. After this time, Microsoft® will no longer provide Windows 10 security updates, bug fixes, or technical support – and PCs running Windows 10 will become increasingly vulnerable to security threats.

Migration planning is an excellent opportunity to introduce digital transformation initiatives that will optimize migration – and give you a strategic edge. We can help you with:

Device Lifecycle Services and Technology Sourcing Solutions:

Create an optimized device lifecycle, from smart technology sourcing to sustainable and secure disposal. Our experts will guide you to replacement models that are right-sized for power and cost. And with companies like Intel, Lenovo, and HP as our long-term partners, we can provide access to negotiated pricing, special discounts, and incentives.

Modern Endpoint Management tools:

Easily find which devices need replacing while optimizing the deployment and configuration of your company's devices, operating systems, and applications with Intune and Autopilot.

AIOps and Digital Experience Management:

Gain a comprehensive view of your technology assets and track performance impact as you roll out Windows 11.

In addition, you may want to consider the following strategic moves to help smooth the transition and potentially save costs:

- Adjust your hardware refresh cycle to fit better with the migration to Windows 11 and potentially save money (prices may go up closer to the deadline).
- Coordinate digital transformation initiatives that will help with the migration, such as moving services to the cloud and progressing to modern endpoint management.

Get started today.

Our professional services team is ready to help you reach informed decisions regarding your Windows 11 migration. Start with our Modern Endpoint Workshop, and within about two weeks, our experts will provide an actionable roadmap, presenting findings and recommendations on how to reach your Windows 11 migration goals.
